Why LinkedIn?

(or Why? LinkedIn!)

LinkedIn…

Yes, LinkedIn is one of the fastest-growing social media platforms, particularly in terms of year-on-year audience growth, with a growth of nearly 15% as of October 2025. It is experiencing record levels of daily engagement as it evolves from a professional networking site into a platform for personal branding, content creation, and business development. 🔗

- High growth rate: LinkedIn has shown a year-on-year audience growth of 14.9%.

- Rapid membership increase: About 70 million new members are being added annually, which is about three new members per second.

- Increased engagement: The platform is seeing record levels of daily engagement, with professionals using it for advice, knowledge sharing, and career development.

- Broader user base: While known for professionals, LinkedIn's user base is diversifying, with Millennials making up the majority and Gen Z catching up quickly.

Also LinkedIn…

You will never find a more wretched hive of scum and villainy.

Desperation?

About

I started my IT support journey in 2004 as a second line support engineer at a world famous university... And even as I've moved onwards (and upwards?) I've not forgotten the fact that IT processes are end to end, and I think about end users, and my IT support colleagues when I design and implement device management solutions.

I've been working with the Macintosh platform since before it was cool. Or at least before Apple moved to Intel processors (but don't ask me about anything pre-OS X...) and have been instrumental in driving the adoption and direction of macOS management at Thoughtworks, a story that starts in 2017.
